Nature should be assisted to throw off impurities of the blood. Nothing does it so well, so promptly, or so safely as Swift's Specific.

LIFE HAD NO CHARMS.

For three years I was troubled with malarial poison, which caused my appetite to fail, and I was greatly reduced in flesh, and life lost all its charms. I tried mercurial and potash remedies, but to no effect. I could get no relief. I then decided to try S. S. S. A few bottles of this wonderful medicine made a complete and permanent cure, and I now enjoy better health than ever.

PUT DOWN BY THE DOG

HOW A REVOLUTION WAS SUPPRESSED BY A PLAYFUL PUP.

The Bull Pup Thought There Was a Grand Opportunity to Have Some Fun and Started in to Enjoy Himself—Consternation Among the Revolutionists.

Another revolution has been suppressed in Hawaii, and the supporters of the queen are congratulating themselves on the strength of the government. Other people recall the fact that the first Wilcox rebellion was suppressed by a baseball pitcher after the king had been driven to the royal boathouse for protection. A few who knew are also telling the merry tale of how Harry Gillig's bull pup put down a revolution, saved a throne and scattered the leaguering armies of the rebels—all in the opera bouffe kingdom of the Colorado Madroños. This is the story George Nagle tells:

"We were at the islands a year or two ago—Harry Gillig, Frank Unger, myself and Pierrot. Pierrot was Harry's bull pup, the joy of his owner's life, the pride of his heart. He was a fierce, bloodthirsty looking brute, and whenever a true sport would pass him the covetous regard which the man would show for the dog would make the cold chills of apprehension play leapfrog in Gillig's spinal marrow. As a matter of fact, though, Pierrot was as playful and quite as harmless as a kitten. He never bit anything in his life except the sweetbreads, chateaubriands and such delicacies with which his indulgent owner pampered him.

"Well, at the islands David Kalakaua was king—and a kindlier man never lived. He showed us marked attention; arranged feasts in our behalf, made me governor of an island for a day, and lost his money to us at poker. He spent nearly as much time at our cottage as he did at the palace, which was close at hand. We grew to have a genuine regard for him, because, whatever his faults, he was every inch a king in the generosity of his impulses and the love which he bore for his subjects.

"There was a condition then prevailing at the islands somewhat similar to that preceding the arrest of Wilcox, Ashford and the other conspirators. Discontent muttered on the corners. An indefinable strain was in the political atmosphere. Without knowing why, the onlooker felt that rebellion might set the alarm bells ringing at any moment. The wrecking of a government might have been precipitated by the jostling of a man on the sidewalk.

"The king was uneasy, though he kept a smiling face and his customary affability. Feeling as we did toward him, we shared in a measure his anxiety, and awaited the denouement with feverish impatience.

"The army was giving trouble. It had felt its power by putting down (with the aid of the baseball pitcher) the first Wilcox revolution. It became unreasonable in its demands, and the king was soon involved in trouble with his own troops.

"You know the Hawaiian army consists of about sixty-seven men and half as many officers. But though small, it is the one military prop of the island kingdom, and it has relatively as much power and importance as the kaiser's marshaled millions. And so it was that when fierce discontent and whispered denunciation were rife in the army the people's faces blanched and apprehension mingled in the merriest rout.

"At last it came. One night, as Gillig and I sat on the porch of our cottage, we heard the roll of the stirring drum and the clangorous marching of armed men.

"'The revolution has begun! The army is marching on the palace!' shouted Gillig.

"Being a brave, aggressive man, Harry grabbed a revolver and started on a run for the palace inclosure. Being more or less of a fool, I suppose, I ran after him without any revolver. Being a dog, Pierrot ran after us both.

"When we reached the palace we found the entire army just drawing into line in front of it. There was all the thunder of the captains and the shouting which a man's heart could wish. The army had come to make a demand on the king, and was prepared to enforce it with bullet and bayonet.

"Now pretty much everything on that trip had been arranged for Pierrot's amusement. So when he saw the gloriously caparisoned army drawn up in the glare of the palace lamps he supposed it was there as a part of his fun. With a bark and a bound he started to enjoy the army.

"Wow!

"When Pierrot started for the army the army saw him coming. With his bow legs, wide jaw and red, overhanging jowl, he seemed a ravening beast. His onslaught was quick and noisy.

"The army stood its ground a moment, and then began to beat a retreat. The retreat was in an instant a rout. The rout became a scramble, with the dog take the hindmost for every man's motto. This was all the more fun for Pierrot. He gave expression to his joy in wild yowls of delight. Every few moments a gorgeous officer or slightly more subdued private would come leaping through the trees in 'a yellow cloud of fear,' Pierrot playfully cuffing his heels until attracted by some other scattered remnant of the leaguering host.

"The rebellion was suppressed, Kalakaua was maintained on the throne and Hawaii was again at peace—all on account of Harry Gillig's bull pup."—San Francisco Examiner.

Early English Umbrellas.

Two centuries ago the umbrella was known and used as a sunshade. Ben Jonson and Beaumont and Fletcher alluded to it. In 1712 it was used as a rain protector. Gay in his "Trivia" speaks of the "umbrella's oily shed," which was recorded as a kind of sou'wester material more serviceable than gingham or silk, which was used in its construction at that period.—Detroit Free Press.

SIGNS ON THE BOWERY

WHAT ONE MAY SEE ON NEW YORK'S FAMOUS THOROUGHFARE.

The Most Distinguishing Feature of a Street That Has a Worldwide Reputation—An Avenue Wherein Are Found People of All Nationalities.

To those students of human nature who are quick to see the weak side of every character save their own, a trip up the Bowery and Park row is always fruitful of good results. There are so many sights, sounds and scenes novel and interesting in the stirring comedy drama, "Struggle for Bread," that the student cannot help feeling amused and interested. Then, too, the fact that nearly every one he meets is poorer than himself imparts the zest of complacency to his pilgrimage, and he steps among the hungry and wretched and the happy and careless, keeps his hand on his pocketbook and his eyes on the shifting panorama of life and makes notes.

The signs are the first things that take the wanderer's eye.

He notes "A Regular Dinner for thirteen Cents" and "Two Genuine Imported Havanas for Five Cents" with interest. He feels that his barber charges him too much when he sees that he can receive tonsorial attention here for five cents, with the added luxury of bay rum for ten cents, and that a clean towel is guaranteed with every shave.

A large and gaudy cartoon extolling the merits of the "Flor de Maggie Cline Cigar" attracts his attention. A small footnote says that it is changed every day, and that while the merits of the cigar will be dwelt lovingly upon, yet the cartoons will also deal with timely topics.

A clothing store near by has a big black signboard stating that this is the headquarters of the "Society for Encouraging the Wearing of Clean Shirts," whereof the proprietor is president. He cannot but feel that the society is at once beneficial, salutary and situated in its proper field, Park row.

The notice over a dingy doorway that "black eyes will be made to look natural for ten cents" causes him some vague apprehension, as it is a silent witness that he is in the land of fisticuffs and assault and battery.

But contemplation of the chalk written words that "a Delmonico lunch goes with every glass of beer" gives rise to more kindly feelings, and he soon forgets his fears.

A red nosed man rapping with a rattan at a large and startling representation of "The Wonderful Monstrosity, Jumbeto, the Elephant Boy, Half Elephant, Half Human, Now to Be Seen Alive Inside" holds him awhile. But he feels sure it is a fake and drifts on to the "Auction Sale."

A sharp eyed person in his shirt sleeves is extolling the merits of a solid gold, full jeweled, stem winding, American movement watch, cased, chased, turned and beveled, going at the ridiculously low price of four dollars. Capers are urging victims to buy, pullers in are bawling the auction to all who pass and the hurdy gurdy behind the dime museum screen tries vainly to drown their cries by its jerky rendering of "Comrades, comrades, ever since we were boys," while the man at the door still raps the counterfeit visage of the elephant boy and cries that the admission is but a dime.

The crowd thickens; evening comes on. The "oysters and clams one cent" man lights his torch, Chinamen, bloused and pigtailed, heading for Chinatown; Italians with pushcarts turning toward the bend, Greeks bound for James street, negroes for South Fifth avenue, Germans for Avenue A, Hebrews for Eldridge street, all homeward bound, work worn and weary, hurry past. "Beefsteak John's" is crowded. The fifteen cent lodging houses have each their score of loungers at their dingy portals.

It is night. Now the shooting galleries light up and the "ping!" "ping!" of the 22-caliber bullets ring down against the sheet iron targets. Men lurk in alleyways and slink out to demand alms. A crowd of roisterers come down arm in arm. They are college boys, down on the Bowery for fun.

A one eyed man has song sheets for sale. He cries his wares and sells several copies to the youths.

The variety theaters open their doors and the Bowery amusement seeker surges in to see the Irish-American Four and McGinn and McGuffin, the king pins of song and dance.

The German and Hebrew theaters are open, too, and have their crowds also. The Elite Lady orchestra has tuned up in the concert halls, and the Bowery is at its best.

The clothing store "barkers" redouble their efforts to catch trade by manual force, and the Bowery roars with sounds of life and trade. Saloons are doing a rushing business now. Sailors, longshoremen, mechanics, all out for drink and recreation, make up the crowd.

A new venture, the "two-and-a-half-cent-a-cue" poolroom, has done such good business that rivals have sprung up on every side. These places are all crowded. The frequenters are for the most part evil looking, low browed youths of eighteen or twenty years of age. They crowd the tables and Bowery argot makes their conversation almost unintelligible to the uninitiated.

The notice that "no profane or vulgar language is allowed" seems sarcastic. It is as funny in such a place as "Bowery prices for Broadway goods" is in the Cheap John clothing store. And the student of human nature notes it in his memory along with the sign—

If I Rest I Rust,
If I Trust I Bust,
No Rest, No Rust,
No Trust, No Cents,
All Drinks 5 Cents.

—New York World.

Not a Nourishing Diet.

An old Scotch servant attached to the household of the famous British logician, Sir William Hamilton, was as proud of his master's fame as if it had been his own, and, having picked up a few of Sir William's technical words and phrases, brought them into play on every possible occasion.

One day a gentleman who was fond of drawing out old John for the amusement of the company said to him, with an engaging air:

"I suppose, John, now that you've lived so long with such a great reasoner as Sir William, you are quite able to conduct an argument yourself?"

"Weel, I winna say sae muckle as that," replied the old Scotchman, with the modesty of true genius, "but if I canna conduct an airgyment, I'm thinkin I could draw an inference."

"Could you? Let us see, then? There's an Eastern proverb, you know, about the wild ass snuffing up the east wind. Now what inference would you draw from that?"

For a moment old John looked nonplussed, as well he might, and then a gleam of sly humor twinkled in the corner of his dark gray eye, and he answered, with a grim chuckle:

"Aweel, the inference that I wad draw from that wad be that he might snuff a lang time before he grew fat!"—David Ker in Harper's.

Polly Saved the Valuables.

We had moved into a newly built house, which had all the modern improvements, the electric bell being one of them.

It was a cold winter's night. Mr. and Mrs. J. were traveling in Europe and the servants were all gathered about the kitchen fire. Polly was also near the fire, but in the dining room, which was up stairs.

She used to see our mistress ring the bell for the servants to enter, and, like a clever bird, studied on this for a long while.

On this night Polly was all alone, when suddenly the door opened and two men entered. The room being dark they could not see the bird and began searching for valuables, for they were burglars.

It brought the servants to the dining room, where, after a short struggle, they secured the burglars, who were about to make way with much of the valuable silver in the dining room.

Polly was fed on dainties for some time as a reward for her valuable assistance.—Cor. New York Recorder.

An Old Buccaneer.

"I recently met a survivor of Pirate Lafitte's band of freebooters," said Thomas Haines, once a lieutenant in the United States navy. "He was a tough looking specimen, and must have been well past eighty years of age, for it is more than sixty years since Lafitte had his headquarters on Galveston island and preyed upon the commerce of the Gulf. The relic of those half forgotten times was an inmate of a Jersey City charitable institution and was not much inclined to discuss bygones. He said, however, that Lafitte was a very handsome Frenchman more than six feet in height, well made and possessed of wonderful talents as a commander. He ruled the toughest lot of men ever congregated on one island as though they were a flock of lambs. Occasionally a lawless spirit would rebel, however, but his days thenceforth were brief and full of trouble. Every woman who came in contact with Lafitte fell in love with him, and he was as safe among his female friends in New Orleans as on Galveston island surrounded by his armed buccaneers."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Production of Portland Cement.

Mr. Giron read before the Engineer's club at Philadelphia a paper on the trade of the world in Portland cement, in the course of which he said that the present annual production in Europe amounts to over 20,000,000 barrels and its commercial value to over £7,200,000. The first factory was established at Northfleet, on the Thames. The process was so crude that in 1850 only four factories were in operation. In England there is now over 8,300,000 barrels made each year. The process is much the same as it was twenty years ago. The raw materials are chalk and clay, both pure, and although inferior processes are employed they make a satisfactory cement.

A few years ago the entire product of the kilns was put on the market, but the fineness of the Continental cements led English makers to improve their processes, although even now English cement is not as a rule as fine as Geneva or French Portland.—New York Evening Sun.

Photographic Paper.

Photographers were obliged until recently to import from Germany the paper used in their work, our own manufacturers being unable to assemble the necessary conditions of material water and workmanship for the production of paper suitable for silver printing.

A process has now been perfected in this country whereby a very ordinary paper is coated with a thin surface of sulphate of barytes and answers admirably for photographic use, bringing out in the finished picture a wealth of detail formerly unknown in the art, it being lost in the texture of the paper employed.—Engineering Magazine.

A Clever Bit of Workmanship.

In a museum of curiosities at Salem, Mass., there is preserved a common cherry seed or stone hollowed and fashioned like a basket. Within the basket are twelve tiny silver spoons, the shape and finish of which cannot be distinguished with the naked eye. The name of the artist who constructed this little wonder has been lost, but the actual existence of the thing itself will not be questioned by any one from the old witch headquarters of the Bay State.—Chicago Herald.

SONOMA, SEPTEMBER 3, 1892.

H. H. GRANICE - - - - - - - - - - - - EDITOR

THE card of Mr. T. C. Putnam, the Republican candidate for Supervisor of Sonoma and Vallejo Townships, appears in these columns this week. The gentleman is a resident of Vallejo Township and is a farmer. He is also a director of the Sonoma and Marin Agricultural Society, and as such has taken an active part in advertising to the outside world the agricultural and stock-raising qualities of our soil and climate. He has resided on his farm, which is located between this place and Petaluma, for twenty-four years and has a wife and three grown sons and one daughter. He is a man of excellent business qualifications, thoroughly identified with our interests and above all is an honest man. If the Democrats succeed in nominating a man for the office that is his equal in all those essentials that go to make up an honest, capable, conscientious official, the people of Sonoma and Vallejo Townships are to be congratulated, as they will be bound in that event to have their affairs at the County Seat properly looked after. The Democratic Convention which meets in Petaluma next week may nominate a man that posseses all the qualifications of Mr. Putnam, but we are sure they cannot improve upon those qualifications.

THE San Francisco Daily "Report" in its issue of last Monday gives an account of the killing of Wm. Carriger by his brother Boggs Carriger, which is a base libel and does an injustice to the living as well as the dead. That paper says "the younger Carriger men were known as desperate men. That they drank heavily and when intoxicated terrorized the neighborhood." This we deny. Everybody in Sonoma Valley knows that the Carriger boys, if we except Boggs Carriger, are exceptionally a quiet, peaceable, sober and industrious set of young men. They have yet to have their first spree, nor have they ever been engaged in any kind of a row, and have always been respected in this valley, where they were born and raised. Wm. Carriger, the victim, was to a remarkable extent a quiet and unassuming boy, who never harmed anybody in his life. The party who caused the article to be published in the "Report" will in time be called to account in the Courts, as we understand steps will be taken to prosecute the libeler.

THE evidence in the Lizzie Borden case at Fall River, Mass., given Tuesday, showed there was no trace of poison in the stomachs of the murdered people, and that the hatchet with which Lizzie is supposed to have murdered her parents had no blood on it, and could not have been the weapon with which the murders were committed, if they were the result of a woman's blows. This is much in Lizzie's favor. The greatest point in the Government's favor is the time when the defendant was seen in her house, which does not correspond with her story.

AN aerolite weighing forty-four pounds fell on the farm of Lawrence Freeman, near Bath county, S. D., late Monday afternoon. The advent of the stone was heralded by several sharp explosions, which were heard a distance of fifteen miles or more, and in some instances created considerable alarm.

Boys and Girls.

The year of greatest growth in boys is the seventeenth; in girls the fourteenth. While girls reach full height in their fifteenth year they acquire full weight at the age of twenty. Boys are stronger than girls from birth to the eleventh year, then girls become superior physically to the seventeenth year when the tables are again turned and remain so. From November to April children grow very little and gain no weight; from April to July they gain in height but lose in weight, and from July to November they increase greatly in weight, but not in height. —British Medical Journal.

The Man-faced Crab.

One of the most singular looking creatures that ever walked the earth or swam the waters under the earth is the world-famous man-faced crab of Japan. Its body is hardly an inch in length, yet the head is fitted with a face which is the perfect counterpart of a Chinese coolie—a veritable missing link with eyes, nose and mouth all clearly defined. This curious and uncanny creature, besides the great likeness it bears to a human being in the face, is provided with two legs which seem to grow from the top of its head and hang down over the side of its face.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Prescott are keepers of the Gay Head Light, on the south side of Martha's Vineyard. Mrs. Prescott also is the mother of a bright little girl, four years old. Last April she was taken down with Measles, followed with a severe cough and running from the ears. Doctors at home and at Boston treated her, but in vain. She grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere handful of bones. Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say for King's New Discovery it would be special in cases like theirs, and if you will send your address you may get a trial bottle free at Ed. Wegner's Drug Store.

REMINGTON.

Glen Ellen, September 1st, 1892.

The world is yet talking of the marvelous record-breaking run of Nancy Hanks in Washington Park, August 17, when she dethroned Sunol, 2:08¼, by going the mile in 2:07¼. The victory is all the more remarkable because Sunol made her record on a kite-shaped track while Nancy Hanks made her's on the regulation circle.

It may be interesting to the public to know that the mother of Nancy Hanks is at the present time at the Hobart farm, in San Mateo, where she has been for some years. Her name is Nancy Lee. She is a magnificent-looking black mare. She is one of the most valuable mares in the splended Hobart collection of brood mares and has foaled some promising colts. Since the wonderful performance of her offspring several thousand dollars have added to her value, and when the sale which is announced of the Hobart farm takes place it is doubtful if anyone secures Nancy Lee for less than $15,000.

Right or Wrong.

Which will ye have? It does seem as if some folks prefer to have the last condition of the liver rather than the first. They perpetually dose themselves with purgatives totally without virtue as alterative of liver trouble. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the successful candidate for the people's choice, and yet, popular and well known as it is, there are unfortunate s who keep on trying the drastic remedies of former days It is to the intelligent portion of the public that the well known and long tried properties of the Bitters appeal. Reason should be guided by experience in the matter of medication. "The best guide to our feet is the lamp of experience," said a great patriot of the early revolutionary period, and the exclamation is pregnant with truth. For over a third of a century the Bitters daily has met with the endorsement of people suffering from liver complaint, malaria, constipation, rheumatism, debility and troubles accompanied by dyspepsia. Latterly it has declared itself and been thoroughly approved as a remedy for "la grippe."

A REMARKABLE LETTER.

A Prominent Professional Man's Extraordinary Statement.

(N. Y. Sun)

To the Editor. SIR.—As my name and face have appeared in your paper and the public prints lately, and as many of my professional brethren are wondering at it, I feel it only just that I should make an explanation. The statement published over my name was made ten years ago, after long and mature investigation, and I have never changed my mind as to the fact then stated. At that time I said, as a physician, that I believed Warner's Safe Cure was the best of all known preparations for the troubles it was advocated to cure, and I say so still. I know it is considered the proper thing for the medical profession to decry proprietary and other advertised articles; but why should they do so? As the late Dr. J. G. Holland, writing over his own name in Scribner's Monthly, said:

"It is a fact that many of the best proprietary medicines of the day are more successful than many physicians, and most of them were first discovered or used in actual medical practice; when, however, any person knowing their virtue and forseeing their popularity secures and advertises them, in the opinion of the bigoted all virtue went out of them."

Dr. Holland was an educated physician, an unprejudiced observer, and he spoke from a broad and unusual experience. Proprietary medicines should not be decried. The evidences of their value are overwhelming. I have seen patients recover from gravel, inflammation of the bladder, and Bright's disease after using Warner's Safe Cure, even when all other treatment had failed

I make this frank and outspoken statement in the interests of humanity and because I know it to be true. I trust for the same reason you will give it to the public. Respectfully,

R. A. GUNN.

An orchestra composed of young ladies and gentlemen has been organized under the auspices of the Congregational Church of Santa Rosa and they will participate in the regular Sunday evening sevices of the above church. The orchestra is under the leadership of Will Dana and consists of three violins, flute, clarinet, cornet, trombone, bass viol in and piano. This music will be a great attraction to the church and will be the means of drawing many to the regular Sunday evening services. Now, why can't Sonoma follow suit.

He was a half-breed Siberian bloodhound and only one year old. He was one of the best duck dogs that we ever shot over. He was of an affectionate disposition and was friendly with everybody, and for the life of us we cannot see why any one should harm him,

REMARKABLE RUNAWAY.

Miraculous Escape of Two Little Girls.

Horse Killed, a Go-Cart Smashed Into Kindling Wood, a Tree Uprooted and a Flagstaff Broken.

On Saturday afternoon last two horses attached to a heavy vegetable wagon ran away on First-street East and in their flight from Schocken's corner to nearly opposite Poppe's store, a distance of less than 400 feet, wrecked everything that came in their way.

When the horses started the owner, Henry Castagnassio, was standing at their heads. In the wagon was seated his two little girls. As the animals plunged forward he grasped the bits and attempted to control them, and after being dragged a short distance was thrown to the ground and the horses finding themselves free rushed madly down the street. Upon reaching the Garibaldi House they virtually jumped right on to a horse and go-cart belonging to John Pagnini. The cart was reduced to kindling wood, and notwithstanding the harness was completely stripped from the horse he escaped without a scratch. The runaways did not fare so well, as one of the shafts of the go-cart pierced the breast of the off-horse to the depth of nearly half a foot, but this did not stop the team in its flight. Keeping right on they ran against a flagstaff at the edge of the sidewalk, the wheels of the heavy wagon striking it with great force.

The little girls, who, strange to relate, had kept their seats up to this time, were pitched headlong into the street, the horses were thrown and all for a time were mixed up together. The children were then picked up and to the surprise of every one who witnessed the accident were found to be unhurt. The runaways quick as a flash were up and off again, and running diagonally across the street collided with a gum tree which was pulled up by the roots and the horses becoming entangled in the tree were brought to a final standstill. Shortly after, the horse that had been injured in the collision with the go-cart dropped dead. The flagstaff was also broken in two near the top.

Bruggy Again Respited.

George W. Bruggy was not hung last Tuesday as the Governor granted him another respite of thirty days. The action was taken in order to give the condemned man's attorneys another chance to save his neck about which the hangman's noose has been uncomfortably dangling for a long time. These respites, to an unprejudiced mind, would make it appear that there must be a doubt in the minds of those in authority as to whether or not Bruggy deserves hanging. Be this as it may, it is about time to put a stop to this respiting business. The poor wretch has been kept on the rack of uncertainty long enough. He should be hung instanter or his sentence commuted to imprisonment for life. The law has no right to torture a man.

The Swiss Celebration.

The celebration to-morrow of the 601st anniversary of the independence of Switzerland will be an imposing affair. There will be a grand parade around the Plaza and through the principal streets of the town in which the Sonoma Swiss National Club, the Turn Verein Society and the Firemen will participate. The liberater of Switzerland, William Tell, and his son will be personated, as will also the twenty-two Cantons of that country, Columbia, Helvetia, Eureka and Uncle Sam. This celebration will attract to Sonoma crowds of people who will not only take in the festivities at the picnic grounds on Broadway, but also the ball at Union Hall in the evening.

The Foutts Perjury Case.

The preliminary examination of George Foutts, charged with perjury, took place Wednesday in Judge Brown's court. Owing to the fact that the Judge himself was subpoenæd as a witness, Judge Seawell was asked to preside. The perjury is alleged to have been committed during the preliminary examination of a supposed confederate of Foutts. Judge Seawell held Foutts to appear before the Superior Court. C. S. Farquar was attorney for the defense. District Attorney Burnett and Deputy Leppo represented the people.

No Guard for Bruggy.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Sonoma was startled last Saturday night by the arrival in town of Bob Fowler, who in an excited manner stated that Boggs Carriger had shot and killed his brother, William W. Carriger, on the Nick Carriger ranch, three miles west of town.

Officer Sparks, accompanied by Dr. Vance and others, left for the scene of the tragedy about ten o'clock and upon arriving at the ranch found poor Billy Carriger lying stiff and cold in death on a bed in his bedroom. Boggs Carriger, who had shot him, had remained in the house while Bob Fowler came to town for a surgeon in the hopes that the wound had only caused the victim to faint. Boggs was found roaming around from room to room crying and moaning in an incoherent manner, caused no doubt from remorse at the terrible crime he had committed.

A glance at William Carriger showed the doctor that life was extinct, as he had been shot directly through the heart.

Bob Fowler, who brought the news to town was the only person on the ranch at the time the shooting took place. He claims that he did not see the shot fired as he was down stairs while the tragedy took place upstairs. Upon his arrival in town he stated that Boggs and William Carriger went upstairs and he was working in the kitchen down stairs. He heard a shot fired and the next instant Boggs Carriger called to him that he had shot his brother accidentally.

Deputy Sheriff Sparks arrested the fratricide and brought him to town and placed him in jail.

The prisoner refused to talk, simply claiming that the shooting was the result of an accident.

Few people in Sonoma, however, are fain to believe him, and the general impression is that the shooting was a deliberate, cold-blooded murder, as William Carriger, his victim, was a quiet, peaceable, sober and an exceptionally good young man. Boggs Carriger, on the contrary, has always been looked upon as a dangerous character. He was addicted to drinking and when in his cups was of a quarrelsome disposition and on more than one occasion has been known to draw a pistol and threaten the lives of persons.

The only thing in his favor in the claim he sets up of the shooting being accidental is the fact that he staid by his brother William all through his trouble with his wife, who had instituted proceedings for a divorce and it is not known that he had any motive for deliberately killing his brother.

It is said that Boggs was in town the afternoon of the shooting and went home intoxicated and commenced quarrelling with William, which was kept up until the shooting took place.

Coroner Blaney came down from Santa Rosa on Sunday and held an inquest on the remains. Great excitement prevailed in town all day Sunday and while the jury were deliberating on a verdict a large crowd of excited men congregated on the outside of the Justice's Court awaiting the verdict. While the jury were hearing the evidence Sheriff Mulgrew slipped quietly out of town with the slayer and took him to Santa Rosa and lodged him in jail pending his preliminary examination.

Whether the shooting was accidental or premeditated, it was a most deplorable affair, as the Carriger family and their numerous relations are numbered among the best known people of this valley.

Boggs Carriger is a widower, his wife having died years ago leaving three small children, two girls and a boy, who were raised by their grandmother, Mrs. M A. Carriger, who died last winter. He is about forty-five years of age and by many people was considered a terror and anything but well balanced.

William Carriger, was just the opposite of Boggs. He was honest and straightforward in all his business dealings and his untimely taking off was a great shock to his many friends in Sonoma Valley where he was born and raised. He was thirty-five years of age. He was married a little over a year ago to Miss Katie O'Brien. The young couple, however, did not get along well together, with the result that his wife left him and instituted proceedings for a divorce which was pending when she was made a widow by Boggs Carriger's pistol.

BOGGS CARRIGER.

He is Held to Answer the Charge of Murder Without Bonds.

The accused was represented by Attorney Swain of Santa Rosa and District Attorney Burnett conducted the prosecution. Nothing new was brought out on the examination to what appears in these columns. The defendent testified that the shooting was accidental. That he went up stairs and got his pistol for the purpose of looking around the ranch for varmints which had levied on the hen roosts of the same. That his brother William met him at the head of the stairs and attempted to take the weapon away from him when it went off accidentally. As he introduced no corroborative testimony Justice Cheney had no choice in the matter and held him as above stated. Deputy Sheriff Fine left with the prisoner for Santa Rosa yesterday at four o'clock and he now lies in jail in that city awaiting his trial in the Superior Court.

The Band Concert.

The concert and hop given by the Sonoma Valley Band at Weyl's Hall on Friday evening of last week was in every way a social and financial success. The large hall was well lighted with new lamps and every seat was occupied by a fashionable audience.

Mr. Redmond, who gave a pantomime entitled "The Courtship," was very successful in his imitations and showed that he had made a thorough study of the characters he personated. In answer to an encore he entertained the audience with another pantomine entitled "Fishing" that was most amusing in its truth to nature and was fully appreciated by those unfortunates, who, having undertaken to try their luck, found their line fast in a tree or took an unexpected and unwelcome bath.

The duet sang by Mr. and Mrs. Cadenasso was splendidly rendered and proved both to be singers of rare ability. It is seldom that the residents of Sonoma Valley are privileged to hear vocal music of such quality here at home, and no Sonoma audience has ever listened to vocal music of such unequalled excellence before. That it was highly appreciated and thoroughly enjoyed was proven by the generous applause accorded to the singers.

Mrs. Dr. Walliser, who accompanied the singers on the piano, displayed the qualities of the true accompanist, which is so important to the singers. Mr. Hugh Maxwell rendered his cornet solo in his usual excellent manner and in answer to a recall he gracefully stepped forward and bowed in acknowledgment. Mr. Claude Johnson, a rising young musician of this valley, gave a baritone solo, which won for him an encore.

All the numbers on the programme were well received and many elicited rounds of applause. After the programme had been carried out the floor was cleared for dancing which was kept up until 1.30 A. M. The band boys deserve much credit for the marked improvement made in the past year. Over three hundred tickets were sold by them for this concert and they feel thankful to the people of this valley for their patronage and appreciation.

Many people, not aware of the dangers of constipation, neglect the proper remedy till the habit becomes chronic, or inflammation or stoppage results. A dose or two of Ayer's Pills in the beginning would have prevented all this.

IF YOU WISH TO AVOID THE TWIN DRUGS, ALUM AND AMMONIA

Dr. H. Endemann, for twelve years chemist of the New York Board of Health, in his paper read before the American Chemical Society at Washington, in October, 1891, states that an ammonia baking powder acts on the gluten of the flour, altering its chemical properties, and cites numerous high authorities to prove its injurious effect on the stomach and kidneys.

Liebig the great chemist says: "The use of alum in bread is very injurious, and it is very apt to disorder the stomach and occasion acidity and dyspepsia."

SONOMA, SATURDAY, SEPT. 3, 1892.

THE SELLBUOY.

Like a restless, troubled spirit,
Self accused beyond excusing,
Seeking rest where none is offered,
Vainly striving for release—
Writhes the bellbuoy in the ocean
As each wave in mad commotion
Buffets it without relenting,
Or a whispered word of peace.

Sunbeams may each day caress it,
Or the storm king howl above it,
To each one the wail goes upward
In a never ending moan,
And the glistening sea gulls hear it
As they hover and pass near it,
And the rocky shores repeat it
In a muffled undertone.

Oh, the pathos of its life song,
Changing not as years roll onward—
Its one note of weary wailing
Outward borne unceasingly!
Prisoner in Neptune's clasping,
Chafing under cord and hasping—
Angel thou of mercy! warning
Countless sails that pass thee by.
—Katharine H. Terry in Good Housekeeping

Polite Photographers.

The knack which French photographers, and especially those of Paris possess in relieving their sitters of a constrained and distressed look while sitting for their portraits has long been the envy and perplexity of photographers of other nations. An American photographer, on a recent visit to Paris, took pains to study the means by which this very desirable result was reached.

He reports that it all lies in a very simple device, which well illustrates the nature of the Frenchman.

When a lady, for instance, is sitting to a photographer for a portrait, the operator does not, in a perfunctory manner, coldly request her to "Look pleasant now, ma'am!" He says to her in the most natural and graceful manner in the world:

"It's quite unnecessary to ask madam to look pleasant; she could not look otherwise!"

The lady of course acknowledges the compliment with her most gracious and highbred smile. "Click!" goes the camera and the picture is obtained, revealing the sitter at her highwater mark, as it were.—Youth's Companion.

How a Prisoner Escaped.

If we will only rightly use little things it is surprising how much may sometimes be done with them. A vizier, having offended his royal master, was condemned to lifelong imprisonment in a high tower, and every night his wife used to come and weep at its foot. "Go home," said the husband, "and find a black beetle, and then bring a bit of butter and three strings—one of fine silk, one of stout twine, another of whipcord—and a strong rope."

When she came provided with everything he told her to put a touch of butter on the beetle's head, tie the silk thread around him and place him on the wall of the tower. Deceived by the smell of butter, which he supposed was above him, the insect continued to ascend till he reached the top, and thus the vizier secured the silk thread. By it he pulled up the twine, then the whipcord, and, then a strong rope, by which he finally escaped.—Detroit Free Press.

The Earth to Be Like the Moon.

The water of the earth is all destined to disappear from the surface of the globe by being absorbed by subterranean rocks, with which it will form chemical combinations. The heavenly spheres exhibit sufficiently striking examples of such an evolution. The planet Mars shows what will become of the earth in some thousands of centuries. Its seas are only shallow Mediterraneans of less surface than the continents, and these do not appear to be very high; and in the appearance of the moon, all cracked and dried up, we have a view of the final state of the earth—for the absorption of the water by the solid nucleus will be followed by that of the atmosphere.—Popular Science Monthly.

The Modern Way.

In India they drown a great many of the girl babies. It is a time honored custom, but not universally approved from a therapeutic standpoint. In civilized countries they put corsets on the girl babies, which brings about the same results, without the shock, which is a sure concomitant of the Indian method. Moreover, babies last longer under the modern system, and it is especially prized by people who prefer to keep their girl babies for a few brief years.—Detroit Tribune.

What a Flood Leaves Behind.

The worst feature of a flood is the fact that the river is apt to leave a deposit of sand, varying in thickness from one inch to ten feet, over a large extent of land that was formerly fertile. In the flood of 1858 a great many farmers in the American Bottom on going back to their premises after the subsidence of the waters, found their property covered with river sand in beds so thick that two or three years elapsed before good crops could be raised.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Place for Him to Call.

Mrs. Witherby—Your old clothes man was around today.

Witherby (grimly)—Tell him next time that, if he wants to look at any old clothes of mine, he will have to call at the office and see them on me.—Exchange.

How Ants Are Eaten.

Ants are eaten by several of the minor nations. In Egypt they are eaten raw with sugar; in Brazil they are served with a resinous sauce, and in East India stewed in buffalo grease or fried in butter.—St. Louis Republic.

A Grave in the Center.

The exact geographical center of the United States is marked by a grave—the last resting place of one Major Ogden, who is buried on a little knoll a short distance northeast of Fort Riley Kan.—Exchange.

NAGLE IN COURT.

J. W. RAGSDALE, Plaintiff,
F. G. NAGLE, Defendant.

The plaintiff for cause of action against the defendant, alleges: That on the 16th day of November, 1885, said defendant, F. G. Nagle, received from G. W. Call the sum of one hundred (100) dollars, the property of the Sonoma County Abstract Bureau; that of said money said defendant, Nagle, returned to said Bureau the sum of $20 only, and retained, and ever since has retained, the balance of said $100 to-wit, $80, on his own use, and that no part of said $80 has ever been paid; that said Bureau assigned said claim to plaintiff.

For a further and separate cause of action plaintiff alleges: That defendant is indebted to plaintiff in the sum of $80 for money had and received from G. W. Call, November 16th, 1885, for the use and benefit of the Sonoma County Abstract Bureau, which claim has been assigned to the plaintiff, and that no part of the same has ever been paid.
